

Take a Step: Towards the New Home of the Hearts of Gold

I felt the breeze. I felt a warm sensation embracing me. I felt the environment trying to reach out whisper me. I'm home.

Here it is. The time has come for us to move to our new world, the new building, our new place of home. The Four-Storey building covered with white paint is in shining beauty, it's waiting for us in a long time. The vast space of the hallways amazed me for it seems like a more comfortable place for us to occupy. As I step on the grounds, I can see and became truly excited because I feel that a new beautiful experience is about to come.

This new environment gave me a cool breeze as it breaks free the beautiful sight of Cor Jesu College from above. The sparkling view of the nature gave me the comfort and the relaxing feeling. This is the connection that I long to feel my whole life; the environment, the facility and the smiles of the students feeling the same thing. Isn't it fascinating? It is really giving us the feeling of building our home at school. The positivity crawls to me every time I take a step on its grounds.

As we moved to our classrooms, I can see the faces of my classmates excited to welcome their places. The whole classroom reflects a view of a well-organized learning environment. The desks provide physical ease that they feel like sitting on our own thrones of knowledge. The vivid splash of the air makes us even more comfortable on our seats and focuses more on the learning that we can gain from the teachers. This wonderful feeling we experienced in our classroom made us taste the lux, giving us motivation to even do well in this high-class institution.

"I am very happy and looking forward to improvements in the quality of learning of the students due to the existence of very good classrooms as well as very good laboratories", Dr. Kurt Anthony Diaz, PhD stated as he look at the innovation manifested by the new building. "We can see that in CJC, we will not only provide you good quality teachers but also quality facilities to ensure your best experience in this institution."

This change is for the better. This new building is not just our place to learn, but also our place to live our lives as students, as individuals carrying the gold of knowledge through high-quality education, so that as we face the dusk and face the night, we will be ready enough to bring out our glow.

Truly, my first day at the new building became a blast as I see that there is a good future set for us. There establishment itself is a standing epitome that there is more to come just to give the students the best facilities, the best education they need. The building is just the beginning, and even though it is not yet fully constructed, I can see what it wanted to give us- a good education, and a good future.
